

WEDGEWOOD GROUP

Information Technology

We believe in the 50/50 rule

Technology development in any organization relies on the collaboration between staff and systems. A proponent of the 50/50 dynamic we understand that an information technology solution includes both the technical component and the people who are going to use it. Therefore, we focus on integrating software to service the employee and the operations they support – instead of the other way around.

Wedgewood Group's unique track record of change management and technology integration for our clients provides a collaborated, step-by-step approach for aligning personnel and systems to the organization's top priorities. In doing so, we enhance strategy execution and bridge the gap between technology and user. We use proven project management methods, reliable technology integration and development tools, and a consistent approach to working with clients to meet any technical requirement.

Our technology capabilities include:

- Custom database development and maintenance
- Legacy system maintenance and administration
- SharePoint workflow development and integration
- System documentation and user training
- Software Development Life Cycle
- Risk Assessment
- IT Governance

5 Reasons to Work with Wedgewood Group

When you are looking to partner with a firm to help you integrate information technology solutions to drive performance, consider these five items that set us apart from our competitors:

1. We see technology as enabling the solution, not as the solution.
2. We start with your facts, not our assumptions.
3. We maintain currency on technology landscape.
4. We stand behind our solutions and the clients we support.
5. We are proven, professional and passionate people.
